The Royal Shakespeare Company's production of Cervantes' legendary comic novel is a joyous romp for all the family 'riotously performed by David Threlfall as Don Quixote and Rufus Hound as Sancho Panza' (The Times)

After a lifetime of reading books about brave and gallant knights, an eccentric old man heads off with his faithful servant on a daring but ill-fated quest to follow in their footsteps and live the life of his medieval heroes.

Hopelessly unprepared and increasingly losing his grip on reality, with each calamitous adventure, the romantic ideal of Don Quixote's books seems further away than ever.

For a chance to win a pair of Band A tickets to see Don Quixote at the Garrick Theatre, answer the competition question, complete your details on the entry form provided and send it to: 'Don Quixote Competition' South London Press, Unit 4, The Gateway, 2A Rathmore Road, Charlton, London SE7 7QW.
